

Nomination Form

The University of Saskatchewan Distinguished Teacher Award is the highest honor for teaching excellence at USask. This prestigious award recognizes faculty members who make outstanding contributions to the learning and working environments at our University. Carefully read the criteria and instructions shared in the Nomination Dossier Guide for specific requirements for award nomination package submission.

Teaching Awards Received - *If the Nominee has won previous teaching awards, please list here. Useful information to include is the year received and number of faculty members who were eligible for the award, additionally, the number of such awards granted in any given year. Please note that receiving a previous teaching award is not a requirement for receiving this award.

Statement of Teaching Context & Responsibilities - This is an important section to set the context for your work as a teacher. Explain briefly your normal teaching responsibilities; for example, you might tell us the normal teaching assignment in your unit and for your type of contract, relevant details about the student profile in your classes, whether your courses are required or elective, or anything that is unique to your context. If you have an administrative position, clarify the course release (if any) that goes with that responsibility. Include a statement of the normal number of courses taught by faculty in the candidate's department. Consider your readers may not be from your discipline. Provide any context that will help them understand how much, what, and when you teach.
